

WTSU Budget Battle Goes To Austin Arena

BY CLAUDE WALBERT

West Texas State University is in the middle of the biennial battle for funds.

By now, each side knows its role: the college exercises all the arts of persuasion while the voices of state government thunder—until the opportune moment to speak the magic word that unlocks the state coffers.

So each side knew what to expect. The college expects the governor and the legislative budget board, a joint House-Senate study group, to chop deeply into requests.

The legislators expect to yield at the last moment to the needs of the college and give it almost what was originally asked.

But before the requests are approved there are many rounds to be fought.

The first round, usually one for feeling out the opponent, comes when the college submits its requests to the Texas Commission on Higher Education.

This year it went about as expected. The commission recommended a little more here, a little less there, but no drastic changes were made.

The commission, like the college, stuck very closely to the book, which in this case is a detailed set of instructions for preparing and submitting requests for legislative appropriations for agencies of higher learning.

One spokesman admitted that the detailed formulas for preparing appropriations tended to preserve the status quo—an agricultural or teachers college would find it almost impossible to become a school with major emphasis on engineering or science.

And in preparing requests in some areas, particularly in organized research, the formulas to be used favor schools which already have major engineering or science departments.

The formula for computing organized research is the institutional complexity factor times the faculty salaries, except for the University of Texas, the University of Houston, Texas Tech, and Texas A&M, which receive funds under the above formula plus an additional amount.

The method of computing faculty salaries themselves is weighted toward giving colleges with a large number of science and engineering students a larger total appropriation.

For instance, in fiscal year 1966 the rates for faculty salaries, at the doctoral level, computed on the basis of the number of students taking a course, are: liberal arts, $139.62; science, $200.43; agriculture, $167.58; engineering, $22.43; and home economics, $133.06.

It is true that other factors enter into the rates. The rate for fine arts is $181.43 because a teacher can only instruct a small number of students. This type of personal supervision is not necessary in most courses.

The usual answer to questions about the high rates for science and engineering teachers is that industry competition for qualified men has boosted salaries.

But faculty salaries are only one part of the formula. The other is the highly complicated "institutional complexity factor."

This factor is computed by dividing the college's total number of students into the weighted value of undergraduate students, masters students, and doctoral students.

On the masters and doctoral level, the students are given weighted values according to their field. At the masters level, the value is .50 for students in science and engineering, .10 for students in teacher education, and .25 for all other students.

Therefore, if only 10 per cent of the masters students were in science or engineering, they would count in this part of the equation 25 per cent of the credit toward an appropriation for organized research. The weighted values favor the science or engineering school even more heavily on the doctoral level.

One spokesman pointed out that research can be expensive in fields other than science and engineering, and without research teachers in any field can soon be expected to fall behind in their field.

But WTSU worked out its requests according to the formula and sent them to the Texas Commission on Higher Education. The total request for the first year of the biennium was $2,914,297, 41.8 per cent above the amount budgeted for 1965.

The commission, after minor changes, pared the figure in their recommendations to $2,850,235.

Then Gov. John Connally swung his axe. He trimmed the figure to $2,587,841, only 25.9 per cent above the amount budgeted for 1965.

One spokesman pointed out that WTSU expected a 10 per cent enrollment increase each year through 1967. The college is also trying to improve all programs.

In one case, the college has $83,450 budgeted for general institutional expense during 1965. These are defined as expenses which benefit the entire institution and are not related solely to any department.

Connally recommended $39,950 after the college had requested $81,650 for fiscal 1966.

Such a cut would mean that the total public relations program of the institution, including band and choir trips, would be curtailed, and student financial aids would be hampered.

However, while the governor made a number of other cuts, he accepted the figure for faculty salaries and the library requested by the college and recommended by the commission on higher education.

Not so the legislative budget board, which next received the requested appropriations. It sliced the library appropriations more than $60,000 and the faculty salaries almost $200,000.

Before the budget board was done, it had cut the recommended appropriation for WTSU to $2,392,098.

If Connally's recommendations for faculty salaries and the library appropriation are finally accepted, a spokesman said, teacher salaries could be raised and needed teachers could be hired.

If the commission's recommendation on departmental operating expenses is approved, new office equipment could be purchased and teachers could attend more professional meetings.

If the board's recommendation for organized activities, defined as activities organized in connection with instructional departments to give students professional training, should be approved by the legislature activities of the college farm would have to be curtailed.

The governor made no recommendation of the $68,215 requested by the college for major repairs. The college hopes to run steam lines to the library, to complete air conditioning in the library, to replace sewer lines, to repair campus streets, and to replace the worn out locks on the educational and administration buildings.

Sources say the governor likes to leave one blank item in his recommendations for the legislators to fill in, a plum they seemingly pluck from the air for the home folks.

And so it goes. WTSU seeks money and state government seeks to apportion the available funds. Each side is forced to operate like a horse trader, which means no outraged shouting or table pounding.

There are two more big steps—the Senate and House bills—and lots of little ones—committee hearings, backroom wrangling. When it's all over the college will have about what it expected to get, which isn't necessarily what was requested.

Chamber Committee Eyes Pharmacy School At WTSU

C-C Names Top Citizen Tonight

Canyon's outstanding citizen will be named tonight, Thursday, at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Chamber president H. R. Fulton Jr., will announce the outstanding man of the year following dinner activities, which begin at 7:30 p.m. in the East Dining Hall on the West Texas State University campus.

Delbert Lowes was named Outstanding Citizen of Canyon in 1964.

Jeff Williams, Oklahoma lawyer, humorist and philosopher, will be guest speaker at the banquet.

Williams is a native of Denison, Texas, but grew up in the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas at Fayetteville. He attended the University of Arkansas, and holds his law degree from the Kansas City, Mo., School of Law.

He has spoken in every state in the nation and in several foreign countries. He has traveled more than a million miles on speaking tours.

Williams is widely known as "Oklahoma's Ambassador of Good-Will", and has been officially designated as "Arkansas Traveler" by the legislature of Arkansas.

His talks, although humorous, usually contain a message.

Rev. Strauss Atkinson will give the invocation, and O. W. "Bud" Parker will introduce chamber directors.

The Legend Arts will present special music, and Fulton will give the president's report. Dr. James P. Cornette, president of WT, will introduce the guest speaker.

Banquet tickets are available for $3.50 at the Chamber of Commerce. (See C-C Page 14)

City Tax Deadline This Week

Deadline for paying city taxes is Jan. 31, according to Burney Slack, city tax collector.

Slack said this week 80 per cent of the city taxes for 1964 have been collected to date.

Taxes levied last year amounted to $178,105.75. Taxes collected by Tuesday of this week totaled $143,295.45.

"This leaves us with $34,812.30 to be collected by this weekend," Slack said.

Valuation of the 1964 city tax rolls shows real property values at $7,028,230. Personal property valuations reaches $4,845,620, according to Slack.

City taxes may be paid at the City Hall on the square in Canyon.

Proponents Seek $100,000 For Fund

Attention is being focused on a school of pharmacy for West Texas State University by the Education Committee of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce. Heading the committee is Dr. Emmitt Smith.

Canyon Chamber board Monday night appropriated $300 for use by the committee in dissemination of information about the proposed school to area pharmacists.

Proponents of the school will attempt to raise $100,000 from area pharmacists. The fund will be known as the Winn Collier Memorial Fund and will be used in construction of buildings for the pharmacy school.

Riley Troth, member of the Potter-Randall County Pharmacy School Committee, said the group will ask the legislature for an additional $100,000 and another $200,000 will be available through the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Other members of the Potter-Randall Committee include Elmer Volle, Amarillo pharmacist, chairman; Dr. Emmitt Smith, West Texas State University representative; and Herman Smith and Thurman Gholston, both of Amarillo.

Winn Collier was a past president of the West Texas Pharmaceutical Association and also of the Texas association. He was a pharmacist in Tahoka until his death about a month ago. His brother, Bob Collier, presently is serving as president of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

Troth estimates that such a school would bring about 300 additional students to West Texas State. He said that he knows of at least 50 students taking pre-pharmacy at West (See Chamber Page 14)

Foundation Needs Cars For Picture

Photographers and car drivers are sought-after folks this week.

Mrs. Ples Harper, president of the Panhandle Heritage Foundation, has asked Canyon folks to donate about two hours of time and an automobile Friday beginning at 4:30 p.m.

In addition to car drivers, men and women who will take color slides are also asked to come out to Palo Duro Canyon State Park Friday.

The idea is to get a picture of some 150 cars, with their lights on, coming up the Canyon road. The picture will be used in advertising for the foundation amphitheater.

A contest will be held for the best slide picture, with first place winner getting $20, second place, $15, and third, $10.

"Photographers who come out to take pictures must bring with them a driver for their car. That way we can use the cars, trucks, jeeps, pickups, (See Foundation Page 14)

Annex Hearing Called Feb. 9

Canyon City Commissioners began again Monday night with annexation proceedings for part of Hunsley Hills Addition.

Commissioners took no action Monday on an annexation ordinance which would annex some 320 acres north of Canyon in the Hunsley Hills development.

Instead, city dads passed an ordinance calling a public hearing for Feb. 9 on the annexation of 212 acres north of Canyon.

Failure to act on the first ordinance killed the original ordinance, which would have added the 320 acres.

A heavy snow muffled London a few days before Winston Churchill died, said Churchill even inspected the bombs with delayed action fuses.

"We had to account for every bomb the Jerry dropped," Mack said. "Then the bomb squads came around and disarmed those with delayed action fuses."

"We always saw the cigar. He always looked the same," says Alexander W. Mack, the Scottish artist who has spent almost half his life in Texas.

"If there was an air raid in London or anywhere near, he would be there to inspect the damage," Mack said.

Jaycees To Sell Poll Taxes

Canyon Junior Chamber of Commerce will sell poll taxes Saturday and Sunday afternoons as time runs out to qualify to vote in state and local elections during the coming year.

Deadline for paying poll tax is midnight Sunday. A spokesman for the Randall County tax office said that office will not be kept open any extra hours to push poll tax payment.

Canyon Jaycees will have poll tax receipts available from 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon to 9 o'clock Saturday night and the same hours Sunday afternoon and evening.

Canyon citizens will be voting in a school board election, a city election and possibly in special elections and on constitutional amendments during 1965.

Poll tax payment is not necessary for participation in federal elections. Deadline for registering to participate in federal elections is also midnight Sunday.

Although Mack, now 70, says he was "never a Churchill man," he has followed the former prime minister's life and thoughts. Among the thousands of books in his Canyon home are volumes from Churchill's "A History of the English Speaking Peoples" and "The Second World War."

But Mack says, "Churchill can write about the war without giving the impression that America was in it."

Mack decided his place was in England when war broke out between that country and Germany. Accounts of the war in Texas newspapers hadn't prepared him for the devastation he saw when he alighted from the train in London.

Soon Mack was working in an

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Sheriff Slim Johnston called a meeting of Canyonfolks Tuesday night to discuss the hot check law. Senator Grady Hazlewood is working on a bill that might make giving a hot check uncomfortable business.

The present hot check law makes it difficult to prosecute nefarious paper hangers.

For instance, under present law it's not even an offense to give a worthless check for labor. Labor was not included in the statute.

We heard the hot check story of the decade at the meeting. An elderly man gave an Amarillo sporting goods house a check for a pair of track shoes and $5 in cash. He said he would leave the track shoes at the store an hour or two and be back for them.

"I think I'll just take another pair of those track shoes," he told the store manager upon his return. He gave another check, drew $5 more in cash and asked permission to leave both pair of track shoes in safe keeping for a few hours.

He never returned but his checks did.

We were told this week that we lack social responsibility. We would like to hear from someone qualified to tell us what social responsibility is.

We assume it means different things to different people. We've always assumed that it means being a good citizen in one's community and taking part in community affairs. It has always meant to us participation in such activities as Church, Community Chest, Boy Scouts, Opportunity Plan, Chamber of Commerce and others.

Dr. Emmitt Smith is making himself a name as a real wheel horse at West Texas State University. Emmitt is largely responsible for guiding the expansion of the university to serve the exploding Panhandle area.

He is serving as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee—probably the most active committee of the entire Chamber. All you have to do is read this week's front page report on the activities of his committee to realize that Dr. Smith is not letting any grass grow under his feet.

Dr. Smith has that rare and wonderful talent of getting folks of divergent opinion to work well together with him.

There really is such a thing as "duck soup." Bob Brown of the Buffalo Lake Wild Life Refuge says flooded crops makes duck soup. "You couldn't keep ducks out of it with a shotgun," he declared.

Mrs. Florence Henson of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, has been visiting in the home of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Henson.

Folks around the office were really giving me a bad time this week after I got out of the hospital.

Seems that immediately following my surgery I was rather goofy, as most folks are under the circumstances.

Anyway, the funnies I pulled seemed to take the cake.

While I was recovering, just minutes after I had been returned from the operating room, a woman from Happy came in.

She introduced herself (and I don't know who she is, 'cause I can't remember her name) and apparently I struck up a conversation of sorts with her.

I fell asleep several times during the discussion (I still don't remember any details) and once when I woke she was standing near the bed, which was near the door.

"Certainly nice to see you folks, and I do appreciate you coming by to see me," was my drowsy comment to her, before my head hit the pillow for more sleep.

Come to find out, the woman was a patient, and she was just crawling into bed when I thanked her for coming to see me.

It brought a good laugh from the crew sitting around the hospital room anyway.

Flew home this weekend to see about my father, who had surgery Saturday morning.

I kept looking at him, he just didn't seem to look right for some reason.

Finally I realized that he didn't have his dentures in, and I turned to a friend and said, "He doesn't have his teeth in."

Well, Dad opened his eyes, looked at me with the typical twinkle in his eye, and finally said...through tubes... "Of course not, I might swallow them."

Who said you aren't somewhat alert after surgery?

Anxiously awaiting the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet tonight, Thursday. Outstanding Citizen of Canyon will be named and new officers will officially take office.

Tickets are on sale at the Chamber office, from any board member or can be obtained at the door tonight. They will cost $3.50...so the food should be outstanding. And the speaker, Jeff Williams, an Oklahoma attorney, should be superb.

Try to make it...7:30 p.m. at the East Dining Hall at West Texas State University.

Last Chance
For School
Head Count

Last call for pre-school age children goes up this week from Ray Musgrave, school census chairman at Canyon Public Schools.

Musgrave said the door-to-door campaign to register every child in the school district will end Saturday, Jan. 30.

Persons having school-age and pre-school age children should contact Musgrave at the high school by the end of the month if a census taker has not been to their home.

Children riding school buses were given forms to give to parents to check and fill out.

"Most of the forms have been returned to us, but we need them back all as soon as possible."

"We want to get an accurate count of how many children will be enrolling in Canyon schools in the next few years. And the annual census is our best way to find out," Musgrave pointed out.

So if you have a child in school or will be ready for school in the next five or six years, contact Musgrave at OL 5-4732.

Dear Mr. Martin:
The Canyon News
Canyon, Texas

In last week's (January 21) 'From the Canyon Rim' you made an extensive comment on 'Look, Up in the Sky...It's Superman' by David Levens.

Since this article appeared in The New Challenge, the publication which we sponsor and edit, we would like to note some points in the interest of classification.

Next to Levens' article on the front page under 'Purpose' we state that our 'reason for being' is to publish student-teacher creativity and thought...as well as to encourage 'continuous dialog' on any subject. These aims are apparent throughout the issue.

Secondly, if Levens' article had been fully printed in The Canyon News, the reader could have judged for himself what was being argued. We feel that your attention only to the opening paragraphs leads to conclusions not inherent in the entirety of the story. Perhaps a quotation from the middle of the article and the last paragraph will help your readers understand the point we would like to make.

This is not to say that men and women who are guilty of treason or espionage should not be exposed and imprisoned when they break the law. It is to say that the hunt for Communists should not be allowed to obsess our minds or cloud our vision.

Neither the Communists, nor any other group are responsible for our ills. Our apathy and our shortsightedness are guilty. We cannot buy off our consciences by placing the blame on a few hundred, or a few thousand, Reds. It is both immoral and infantile to try.

We appreciate your interest in The New Challenge.

Sincerely,
Charles Hastings

EVERYONE'S IN THE ACT--Joe McWilliams, 22 in light suit, shoots above the heads of several Texas Western University players for a tally. West Texas State edged past the TWU squad 56-54 last Saturday night in Canyon.

WTSU Plans Cage Windup With 7 Men

The West Texas State University basketball team is going into the last third of the season with seven men and never-say-die spirit.

Sports information director Lou Spry announced Wednesday that the eight-man team had shrunk to the "magnificent seven."

Ben Finley, the 6-7 center from Denton, is not eligible for play because of scholastic reasons. The junior had started in a few games this season, but had not played in the last three games.

Jimmy Viramontes, head basketball coach, said the squad had always worked hard in practice and "never quit, regardless of the odds against them."

The team was recently black-jacked with the announcement that four players were dropping from the squad, three for personal and one for academic reasons.

Even after the announcement, Viramontes said, the squad showed unflinching spirit in workouts.

Then 6-2 junior Marvin Mitchell, one of the drop-outs, asked to return to the squad. "We treat everything as a family affair," Viramontes said. He took Mitchell's return up with the squad.

"If I had known of him ever being a discipline problem," Viramontes said, "I would never have brought it before the team. But they knew him better than I did."

The coach went on, "The boys know I will bring up things like that and we all, as members of the family, will speak our piece, but the final decision is made by the head of the family. I was glad to see my thoughts were confirmed and approved by the decision of the team to bring Mitchell back."

Mitchell said when he left the team that he was discouraged because his grades weren't as good as in past semesters. He was also recovering from a fractured cheekbone and having trouble regaining the form of previous seasons.

With Mitchell's return, Viramontes shelved plans to call up 6-7 senior Dale Burrows who has been freshman coach this season, plus redshirts Wallace Franklin and Harry Lisle.

Another factor Viramontes considered in deciding to finish the semester with a seven-man squad was Lisle's announcement that he was going to enroll in another college to play football.

Lisle decided over the weekend to attend Harding College in Searcy, Ark. He left for Searcy early this week. He will be eligible for football next fall and hopes to play halfback.

Since the announcement of the drop-outs, Viramontes said, the team has shown "a very admirable response, one of high character."

The others who left the squad besides Mitchell were varsity players James Strahan and E. B. Attaway and redshirt Sherfield Whaley.

Strahan and Whaley cited personal reasons for leaving the squad and Attaway, after receiving notification that he was failing two classes, decided not to wait for the rest of his grades.

Viramontes noted that percentage-wise the team was probably having far less academic trouble than many other campus organizations.

"I have very high respect for the kids on the ball club," Viramontes said. "I have no doubt that the boys are of the character that will accept it as a challenge."

The coach said the squad was "well acquainted with the sacrifices it'll take going into the remainder of the season. But if we don't have any further injuries or illnesses we'll be all right."

He added that frequently there was too much worry about the scoreboard, but the primary basis for judgement of the team was how the players are improving individually.

The varsity squad is practicing with the freshmen cagers, Viramontes said, and the arrangement is working to the advantage of both teams.

BIG TIME WINNER—Mrs. Wayne A. Turley can't keep the smiles away as she accepts a check for $1,000 from R. E. "Barney" Barnes, far right, manager of Bellah's Super Market. Wayne Turley, husband of the lucky Tide contest winner, holds a box of the detergent as Keith Frost of Amarillo, salesman for Procter and Gamble, joins in the festivities. Mrs. Turley also won a mink stole and a 1965 Plymouth sport coupe...all with a Tide boxtop and a social security number.

Walter Graham, the Nolon Hensons and children, Jan and Rusty, have returned from a four-day visit in Denver, Colorado.

Historical Group Names Committee

Committees of the Randall County Historical Survey Committee were announced at a meeting Jan. 16.

Mrs. T. B. McCarter, chairman, appointed members of four committees.

Serving on Financial and Legislative committee are Jack Taylor, chairman, J. W. Kleinschmidt, Mrs. A. J. Warren and Mrs. T. G. Hull, Jr.

Historical Markers and Landmarks committee, Roland Black, chairman, C. Boone McClure, Clure, Mrs. Jack T. Hughes, Jerry LaGrone, Mrs. L. W. Wilson, and Mrs. Charles Harter, Historical.

Historical Preservation committee, Mrs. L. W. Wilson, chairman, Mrs. Jack T. Hughes, Mrs. Raymond Lumry, Mrs. Emilio Caballero, and J. W. Kleinschmidt.

Historical and Tourist committee, C. Boone McClure, chairman, Roland Black, Mrs. Jack T. Hughes, Mrs. Emilio Caballero, Mrs. Charles Harter.

In other business during the meeting, Judge Lloyd King brought greetings from Governor John Connally, as 1965 marked the beginning of a five-year program by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee for marking historical sites, gathering county histories, and publicizing Texas past and present.

King also announced the World War I commemorative statue on the Court House grounds will soon be restored to its original level position.

Next meeting of the committee will be Thursday, Feb. 11 at 12 o'clock noon at the Trail Motor Inn.

Mrs. V. R. Griffin and son, Joe, and Mrs. J. E. Mickey visited friends and relatives in Stillwater, Oklahoma City, Duncan, and Comanche, Oklahoma last weekend.

Winners Take $1,000, Mink Stole, '65 Car

A box top from Tide detergent and a social security number equals one mink stole, a 1965 Plymouth Sports Coupe, $1,000 cold cash, and a beautiful purse.

Mrs. Wayne A. Turley of Canyon found that the deal wasn't a bad bargain at all. Last week, Mrs. Turley answered a knock at the door of her mobile at the Round-up Trailer Park.

A man checked Mrs. Turley's name, and asked to come in.

"He handed me that check (for $1,000), and I just stood there and looked at him. Finally he asked me to sit down," Mrs. Turley recalled, only moments after making final arrangements for her new Barracuda car.

"I just couldn't believe it. Then when he told me I had won other prizes, I...well I just couldn't believe it," the prize winner marvelled.

And her husband, a senior student at West Texas State University, found it even harder to believe. He turned "white as a sheet" when his excited wife tried to explain it to him.

How did a boxtop and a social security number turn into a barrage of gifts for the Turleys?

Quite simple. Mrs. Turley entered a Procter and Gamble "Tide Shopping Fling Sweepstakes" contest last fall.

"I thought I might win a camera or something like that," she recalled.

But the folks at Procter and Gamble had bigger and better prizes in mind for their main winners.

Names were drawn, and one day Mrs. Turley was notified that she needed to get her social security number and name notarized.

So the Turleys did just that, but forgot the matter, except to laugh a little about how foolish they were probably being over the contest.

Then the knock on the door last week, and the door to lucky days opened.

In three weeks, Mrs. Turley will probably be seen driving around the square in their new car with the mink stole wrapped around her shoulders. But the check will be neatly tucked away at the bank.

Or if it isn't Mrs. Turley in the drivers' seat, you may find R. E. "Barney" Barnard manager of Bellah's Super Market sporting the car and mink stole...just for a ride around the square.

"I want to drive the car around the square at least once when it comes in" said Barney as he beamed over the good fortune of the Turleys, customers at Bellah's.

What's it like to be big time winners? Well the Tur-ley children, Jim, 5, and Jeff, 3, couldn't understand why the car wasn't in the driveway at that very minute. And of course the Turleys were all smiles.

"I called my mother as soon as I learned about it last Wednesday, and she was crying so much she had to call me back. She just couldn't talk to me," Mrs. Turley said.

January, 1965, will be a month and year the Turleys will long remember...and all because of a boxtop and a social security number.

Mrs. L. B. Walters visited her daughter, Louise Thompson, of Lubbock last weekend. Mrs. Thompson has been ill, but is now improving. Another sister, Elizabeth James from Olton, also visited with Mrs. Thompson.

CANYON BUSINESS REVIEW BUYER'S GUIDE

Roy Price, owner and operator of Price's Grocery, opens his doors each morning around 6:30 a.m. and remains open from 12-16 hours.

"We try to close about 7 at night, but if there are people still here, and still coming, we stay till all are through," Price says.

Price's School Store and Grocery is undoubtedly one of the real "fun" groceries of Canyon.

He has operated his store in the same location since coming to Canyon some 18 years ago.

He moved here from Friona, where he was watch inspector with Santa Fe. Before that, Price was watch inspector for Santa Fe and the TD railway in Bonham.

Price also repairs, buys and sells antique watches and clocks.

The oldest clock which he has ever worked on is a 250-year old French clock.

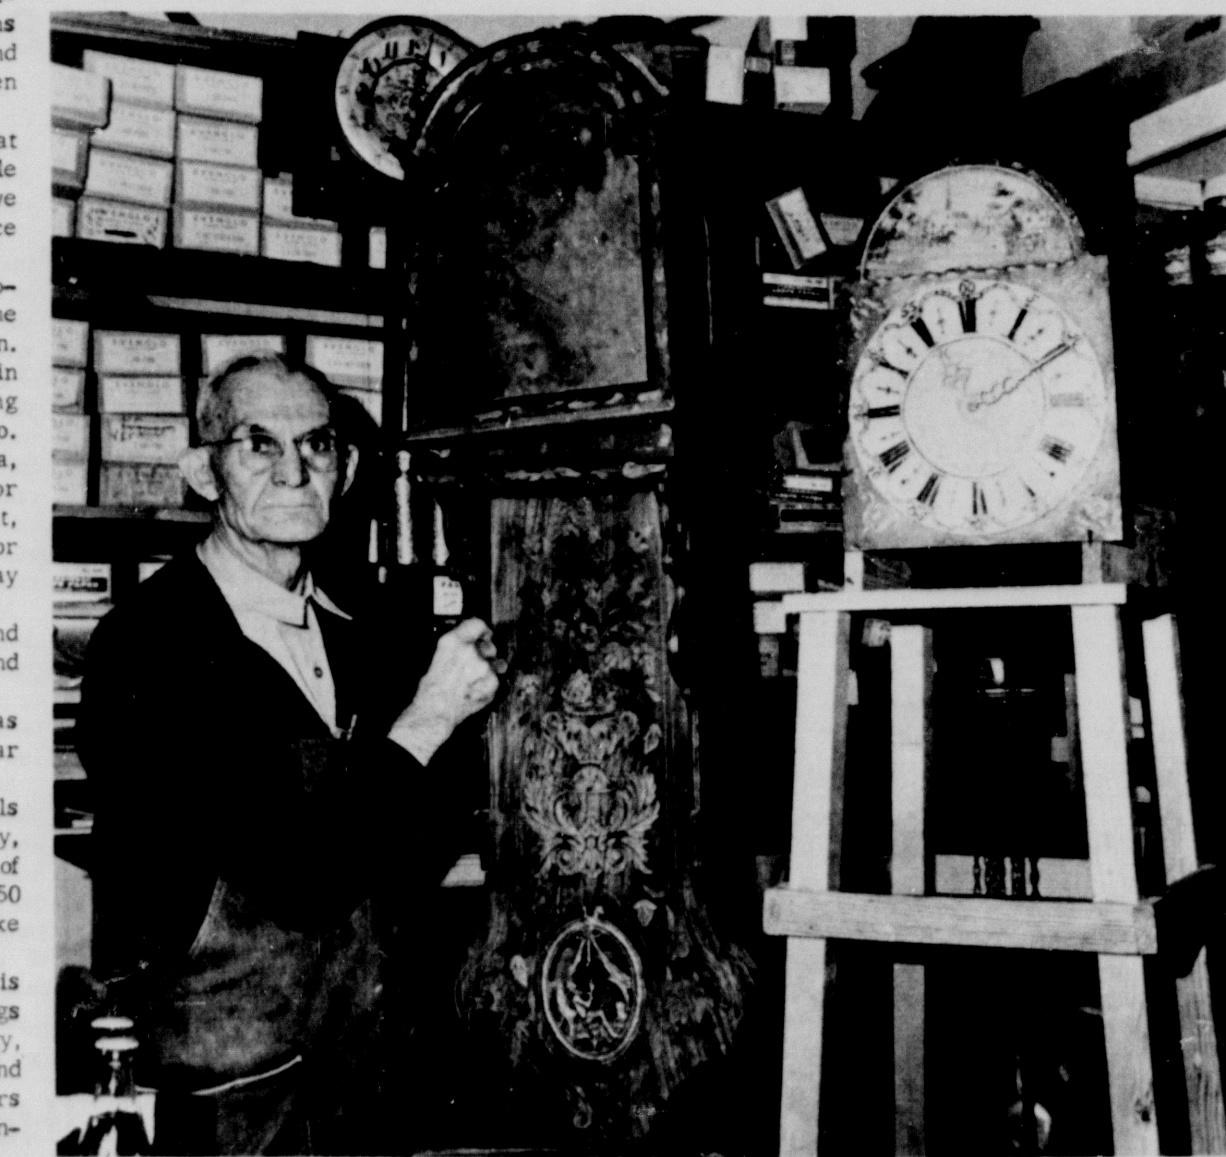

Many of the clocks Price sells are imported from Germany, including a brand new group of 30 which are from 100 to 150 years old. All the clocks strike the hour.

For the moment, Price is repairing a clock which belongs to West Texas State University, similar to the grandfather kind of clock. It is over 200 years old and is a part of the Hamlin collection.

In the grocery, Price carries a complete line of school supplies, groceries, all kinds of candies and ice cream.

"We have from 200-300 children flocking in here each day at noon", Price notes, "so we keep well stocked on what they might like for dessert."

The Prices have two sons, one who lives in Hereford, and one a Canyon resident, and a daughter, who lives in Columbus, Ohio. In addition, there are 10 grandchildren, and 2 great-grandchildren.

We invite all Canyon residents to drop into Price's grocery most any time, gather around the fire and chat. We know you'll find it fun, to hear about clocks and most everything else.

Price's Grocery has most all other kinds of foods and household necessities, so run down and see for yourself. The store is at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 8th Street.

Final Rites Friday For Robert Glazner

Robert W. Glazner, 25, died Monday in John Sealy Hospital, Galveston, following open heart surgery.

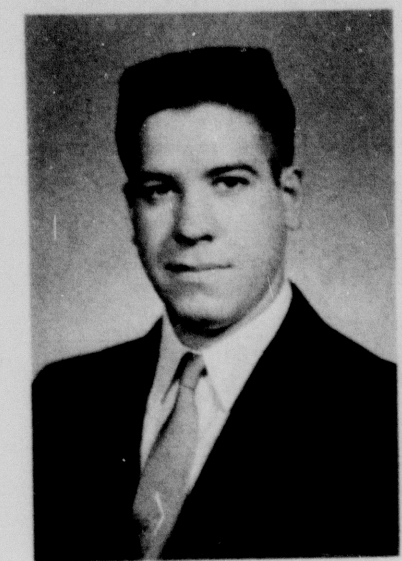

He had entered the hospital about a week ago for surgery roeder August 19, 1961. Mr. Glazner was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Cheyenne Wells, Colorado. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in Colby, Kansas. Rev. C. Newton Starnes, pastor of First Methodist Church, Canyon, will officiate.

Coach Hopeful After Seeing Young Players

Hereford topped Tulia 71-67 to win the freshman division of a basketball tournament held Saturday in Canyon. The tournament, with freshman and B team divisions, originally drew four entries but Phillips was snowed in. Tulia beat Hereford in the B team division in a close game, Canyon coach Roy Kieval said. Canyon was on the bottom in both divisions.

But Kieval said he saw some good prospects for the varsity team on Canyon's entries. He singled out Mark Lair, who scored 29 points in the B team game against Hereford, and his teammate Jack Swartzell for their performances.

ROBERT W. GLAZNER and residents of Canyon had been asked to donate blood for his operation. Mr. Glazner was born in Great Bend, Kansas, May 21, 1939 and was a graduate of Cheyenne Wells, Colorado, High School. He attended Ft. Hays State College, at Hays, Kansas. He married Sandra Ann Sch-

Rabinofs In Concert Sunday Afternoon

Concertgoers will have an opportunity Jan. 31, Sunday, to hear one of the most popular violin-piano duos on the concert stage today. The Rabinofs, a husband-wife team, will play a concert at Canyon High School beginning at 3 p.m. under the sponsorship of Community Concert Association of Canyon.

Scheduled on the program are "Variations on a Theme of Corelli" by Tartini-Francescatti, "Sonata for Violin and Piano in A Major (1886) by Franck, "Rika, Profile No. 1," by Rabinof, "Scherzo in B, flat minor" by Chopin, "Recitative and Scherzo-Caprice (for violin alone)," "Caprice Viennois," and "Tambourin Chinois" by Kreisler, "Berceuse, from the Fire Bird," by Stravinsky, "Danza de la Gitana" by Halffter-Heifitz, and "Le Streghe" by Paganini. Admission to the concert is limited to members of the Community Concert Association and their guests.

Also included in the team's repertoire are double concertos from Bach through Chausson, to works commissioned by such composers as Martinu and Robert Russell Bennett. Rabinof plays the priceless "Lord Amherst" Stradivarius violin, considered one of the three greatest violins in the world. It was formerly the property of Fritz Kreisler, one of the all-time immortal violinists, who played his last concert in Carnegie Hall on the same instrument. The violin was given to Rabinof by a patron who remains anonymous.

Mrs. Rabinof is considered one of the top women pianists of the day, and one of the few pianists who plays accompaniments and sonatas by memory. The concert is the second in the series of three concerts.

400 Due At Banquet

Green, who is Information Specialist-News Bureau at the Public Affairs office at NASA, will speak on "Footprints on the Moon", which will cover the space program with emphasis on Project Apollo.

Over 400 persons are expected at the dinner, sponsored by Llano Estacado Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The dinner will be held in the East Dining Hall of West Texas State University beginning at 7 p.m.

New officers of the council will be installed at the meeting, including Art F. Cox, Amarillo, president, Cliff Milner, Amarillo, Cleo Clayton, Sr., Amarillo, and John Colquitt, Jr., Dalhart, as vice-presidents, Dorsey B. Smith, Amarillo, treasurer, W. B. Canyon Aims North For Tie-Breaker Canyon, tied for third place in district play with an 11-10 record, meets Perryton Friday night at Perryton in a tie-breaker.

Perryton handed Canyon a 12-point defeat in their first meeting on the Canyon court. But coach Roy Kieval says the Eagles have made giant strides in teamwork and defense.

These elements made the difference Tuesday when Canyon downed Tulia 54-48. Canyon took an early lead and held it throughout the game. The score by quarters was 12-10, 26-21, and 38-32. The Eagles hit 53 per cent from the field while Tulia hit only 33 per cent. From the foul line, it was Canyon 63 per cent and Tulia 42 per cent.

In what Kieval described as "one of the best defensive efforts of the year," Canyon grabbed 38 of the rebounds to Tulia's 23.

The Eagles are 2-3 in district play. Dumas holds first place by a narrow margin and Hereford and Tulia are tied for second.

Kieval said any team could drop any other team and the race was still wide open, but Canyon "will have to win the rest of the games to be up there in the district race."

Canyon dropped a close decision to Dumas Friday night. The 50-48 final score doesn't indicate that Canyon led until the final minutes on the Dumas court, where the Demons are extra tough.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stokes have returned from a 10-day trip to El Paso where they visited with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stokes.

The Stokes continued on to Hachita, N.M., where they visited with Frank T. Brown, and to Lovington, N.M.

Ricky Bacon, Canyon's 6-6 center, leaps between two Tulia players in the kind of effort that gave his team a 38-23 edge in rebounds while defeating the visitors 54-48.

Buffaloes Tackle Highlands Saturday

The West Texas State University Buffaloes face New Mexico Highlands Saturday night at Las Vegas hoping to bounce back from the exhaustion that defeated them in the final minutes of the match Monday night with Oklahoma City University.

In that game, the Buffs hit 56.7 per cent of their shots from the field in the first half. But, as coach Jimmy Viramontes said, "They were a little too tall and had too much depth. We took an early lead on them

Mrs. T. T. Fain celebrated her 88th birthday last Wednesday with a dinner party at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Oldham. Other children present included Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fain of Wellington, Mrs. Paul Allingham of Atchison, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fain of Canyon, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Others unable to be present were Mrs. Sybil Canada and Arthur of Chinook, Montana, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey and Lajauuna of Shamrock, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Curl and Dan of Memphis.

The coach said Calvin Taylor's superb effort on defense and rebounds didn't show up on the score books.

Taylor held the rangy Texas Western center scoreless from the field for what is probably the first time in his career.

Viramontes' eight-man squad abandoned their usual run-and-shoot brand of ball after taking a lead so that the game pace wouldn't tire the short-handed squad.

cating all right-of-ways and utilities to the public. The resolution was filed in the Randall County Clerk's office early Monday.

Annexation of the property could become final by March 22, 1965 at the earliest date, according to city manager Dewey Bryant.

Fletcher Sims, Jr., visitor at the regular meeting Monday, asked Mayor Clarence Eugene Thompson why area west of the present development had been included in the annexation proceedings.

"I don't mean to speak for Mr. Hunsley, but I believe he told us he had the area platted already. We thought if he was going to develop it soon, we might as well include it at this time," Thompson explained.

"Does this constitute a policy change for the commission? I have heard that Mr. Hunsley asked to have the area annexed several years ago, but the request was denied," Sims queried.

"We have not had a definite policy on annexation in the past, so there could be no change in policy," said Commissioner George Ritter.

"I was on the Commission at that time, and Mr. Hunsley did not officially request annexation. What he said to individuals I have no way of knowing. But he did not present a request officially to the Commission," Commissioner Paul Lindsey reported.

In other action Monday, Commissioners authorized Bryant to begin work on specifications for a new trash truck for the city. Bids will be taken in the near future, according to Bryant.

Joe Rice and Jack Jennings appeared before commissioners to give a year-end report on the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department.

Rice pointed out that a total of 86 calls were answered in town, and 82 answered in the county. The emergency unit was called out 26 times.

Fire loss within the city totaled $8,699.85 compared to $5,208.94 in 1963.

Rice also pointed out that Canyon's key rate is presently 24 cents with 10 per cent good fire credit on insurance.

Fire department received $100 reimbursement per call from the county for county fires totalling $8,200.

Commissioners also approved members to the city zoning commission. Roland Black and Owen Williams were reappointed to the board. On the Canyon housing authority committee, Clark Jarnagin and Wesley Cox were reappointed.

E. J. Larson, Ray Bible, C. L. Key, Joe A. White, Dave Curtis and Dale Brock were asked to serve again on the plumbing advisory board.

Commissioners also gave their approval for Bryant to send developers a letter setting tentative deadlines for submitting plats, putting money in escrow and for paving and utility improvement programs.

On paving programs, Bryant suggested bids should be submitted sometime in March. Utilities deadline should be in July and sealcoating deadline should be set for May.

In submitting plats, Bryant suggested March 1 as a tentative deadline.

Bryant gave a report on the progress of the sewer plant improvements.

"We've done all the work ourselves so far at the plant and we have all the old pipe out. Work is progressing very well now," he noted.

Texas State and at Amarillo College.

A joint meeting of the Canyon Chamber Education Committee, the Amarillo Chamber Education Committee and the Potter-Randall Pharmacy School Committee will be held at noon next Monday in the Gold Room of the West Texas State East Cafeteria.

This group will select a committee on the Winn Collier Memorial, plan its first meeting and then consider other problems related to a campaign for funds.

Members of the Chamber board heard a full report Monday night on work being done by the Education Committee.

Among other things, the committee's program of work for the year includes support for the pharmacy school, support for a school of nursing at WT, continued support of the merit award plaque for seniors at Canyon High School, support for a luncheon for new WT teachers next fall and support for a luncheon for new faculty members of Canyon Public School.

The committee also will sponsor a Special Day program during which a group of area people will be entertained on the West Texas State Campus, given a tour of the campus, and treated to a dinner and a football game that evening.

Members of the Education Committee, other than its chairman, include Hollis Cook, Clarence Eugene Thompson, Riley Troth and Jerry LaGrone.

The Chamber board Monday night accepted several committees as submitted. The list of committees is not yet complete, according to Roland Black, Chamber manager.

A year-end financial report was approved.

The board approved a resolution calling for review of the budget by a budget committee with raising of minimum dues in view.

Members of the board also discussed the annual Old Settlers Reunion but no decision was made.

underground warden's shelter, underneath a crypt in a London church. There, and while patrolling his sector, he could reflect on the war.

"Churchill knew the British people," he said. "He didn't have to be with them politically; he knew how to get them on his side."

Mack recalled that one of the first, and most delicate tasks Churchill faced was replacing the older line officers, an aristocratic brotherhood bound together by the public school tradition, with men who "thought in the modern way about warfare, not about trench warfare."

Mack added, "He was an old man when he was elected prime minister, but the greatest part of his life was yet to be lived."

One night, after the Germans had begun concentrated air raids, part of Mack's sector was flattened. The only structure left standing was a narrow three-story building that housed a bakery on the first floor.

As the damage was being inspected by the first light of morning, a sign with a quote from one of Churchill's wartime speeches appeared in the window: "We stand alone."

"He was a great man for slogans," Mack said.

In the last great air raid of the war, a bomb fell between Mack and his partner on patrol. The other man was killed.

"All I remember is a big flash of light and falling into the snow," Mack said.

After being bombed out of a London hospital, Mack recovered in a hospital in the green English countryside. A year and a half later, when the buzz bombs began falling on London, Mack was wearing the uniform of a fire guard.

Mack was still in London when the war dragged to a close. He saw Churchill's defeat at the polls.

"It didn't upset him; he knew the British people," Mack said. "He knew the greatest mass of the soldiers coming back were sick of the damn war."

Elementary Youngsters' Coordination Developed In P. E. Class Periods

BY PHYLLIS BONNIE

"Bounce, bounce...Now do a Doggie Flip."

These words may be heard any schoolday from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at Rex Reeves Elementary School, as elementary students go through their paces on the trampoline—a part of the physical education program.

"We like to feel that physical education in the elementary school is only a part of a total program," noted Oscar Hinger, principal.

"Everything has its place," Hinger added, "and with a program whose aim is to produce physical fitness, physical education in the elementary school is a means to arrive at that particular objective."

"Skills which are learned here are skills which an athlete or any other active person must know. Here, we can't play football, or basketball, since we are too small, but our students can learn the fundamentals," noted Hinger.

But physical education instructors Jerry Yows and Mark Clapp believe that academic education and physical education must go together.

"We really want to express our gratitude to be part of a community that is progressive enough to spend money for a program of this sort," Hinger stated. "We are the only elementary school in the area that has a planned p.e. program for every child in grades 1-6, even the handicapped."

Each student in grades 1-6 has a class in physical education each day.

Yows, who instructs grades 1-3, teaches a total of 11 classes each day, for 25 minute periods. Two rooms of about 30 students each are part of the classes.

During the 25-minute periods, children will be developing basic movement skills in learning eye and hand coordination, rhythms, relays, stunts, team games, catching, throwing and kicking skills, and trampoline work.

"Work on the trampoline has improved their coordination and balance, as well as their agility, and is a motivating factor," noted Yows.

"And, you can tell the difference in coordination between children who have been enrolled in the program for several years and students new to this program," Clapp added.

Nine classes of students, or a total of 20 classrooms, grades 4-6, are taught by Clapp for 30 minute periods each day.

"We work mostly on developing basic skills" he stated.

Team games, including football, basketball, soccer, and baseball too, are all part of our daily classes. The girls participate in those activities suited to them.

"Other activities include rope climbing, china, trampoline work, volleyball, gymnastics," Clapp said.

Yows and Clapp both agree that a child should develop mentally as well as physically.

The two instructors suggested four aims of their program.

"First, we want to develop fundamental skills through selected and guided physical activities, then, we try to develop fitness, not only physically, but also mentally, emotionally, morally, and socially. Another objective is for the child to know rules, techniques, and sportsmanship of each sport he participates in. Finally, we teach safety and the ability to handle the body skillfully."

"We want to educate the whole child, so that he can exhibit judgement, leadership, self-confidence, and self-expression, not only on the playground, but in the classroom, too," noted the two coaches.

"Also, to further motivate our program, we have an intraschool track meet each spring. Entries are made from each room as if it were a regular district track meet. There are about 15 different events, for both boys and girls, and a trophy goes to the winning room. Also ribbons are given to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners in each event," added Clapp.

To add emphasis to the physical education program for youngsters, the theory of rhythm development is being related to reading and writing.

In "Reading Teacher", Dec. 1964, notations are made concerning rhythm development, including "There is evidence emerging from studies made at reading research institutes indicating that children who have difficulty with words and who exhibit bizarre spelling and writing patterns usually have very little sense of rhythm," and continuing "Rhythmic performance of motor skills (defined by Yows and Clapp as the training of one's muscles to move in their natural movement of rhythmic and reactionary patterns) is related to reading and handwriting." The article also makes the summation that schools should include rhythmic training and experience in their normal educational program, especially in the lower grades, and Canyon schools are.

What do the teachers of elementary children think of the physical education program for their students? Well, comments range from "great", to "fine", to "We see children using muscles they might never use in the first grade". One teacher made this observation, "This program helps the little child who is shy and wants to play, but won't join in, it's not a matter of choosing the best for each team." Another added, "each p.e. class is like trying a new food for most of these children, and they do love it."

So, Canyon schools move one step farther ahead in progress, to stand among the leaders of the state and the nation.

FLIP!—and one of the youthful trampoline performers does just that. This boy, enrolled in the daily physical education program at Rex Reeves Elementary School (as are all students) does a doggie flip—from his hands and knees.

EASY N-O-O-W---Don't anybody move until the count of three! Tumbling, as demonstrated here by this human pyramid of six students of Mark Clapp, is an integral part of physical education in the elementary grades. Clapp teaches children in grades 4-6 at Rex Reeves Elementary School in Canyon.
